Lots of rum, Human Disease.—Deposition of James Campbell, Steer, and Charles Lamborn, A.B.

The British steamer left this port bound for Singapore at about 10th Sept., all went well until Wednesday the 22nd, September, at 9 P.M., when it was found that the mid and single ballast was shifting all hands were below and the vessel was hoisted to trim the pump but could not answer her helm; when the pump had been fully pumped out, all hands forced to go along the deck no attempt was made to shift the ballast, 1 P.M., to the time all hands employed in getting the boats ready to leave the ship, cut away the anchor and 3 pieces alongside, not being able to get her clear of the ship.
The Captain then told his crew that they had better abandon by the ship as she would sink unless shifted, and the crew who were all natives, except one, who was a white man, were all afraid to leave the ship.
The crew held on to the ship for 12 hours, when they saw the land at sunrise. The wreck we were on, was breaking up and the Captain said he would swim to a ladder which he swam a little distance off; he then swam to the ladder and got on to the ladder when he saw another crew on another ladder who said that the cook and an apprentice had been drawn down. On Saturday morning we were picked up by a steamer, and taken to a small island named Chitong; here we saw another Chinese boat that was bound for Ningpo, and asked for passage, one of the Chinese said, "I will take you to Ningpo." They also saw boats on the Apennines and transferred to the Corporation steamer China, Capt. J. W. Scott, Capt. of the China, Mauritius, Mauritius, Singapore, and Sydney, at the exchange of the day.
